

What is a Workforce Partner? Why should your company be one?

Glad you asked! First and foremost, you are reading this because we identified you and your company as a great work place for our graduate apprentices. Who better for us to partner with than companies whose aim is to grow the industry and workforce?

"Education Through Experience"

Becoming a Workforce Partner with the Trades Education Center presents a strategic opportunity for companies and organizations to actively contribute to the development of a skilled workforce while securing several advantages for their own operations. By supporting Trades Education Center through hiring graduate apprentices, partners not only invest in talent but also reap significant benefits.

Firstly, being a Workforce Partner positions companies as industry leaders committed to filling the skilled trades gap by supporting education. This commitment is recognized through social media platforms and in-person events, enhancing the company's reputation and brand image.

Secondly, partnering with Trades Education Center provides access to a pool of tomorrow's skilled tradesmen. Hiring graduates who have received training through the program ensures a skilled and knowledgeable workforce for specific industry needs.

Additionally, Workforce Partners gain access to a network of Curriculum and Pipeline Partners who share similar goals in advancing and supporting the trades. This network fosters collaboration, knowledge sharing, and potential business opportunities within the industry.

Overall, being a Workforce Partner with Trades Education Center is a strategic investment that not only addresses workforce needs but also offers recognition, access to talent, and networking opportunities within the trades community.
